

EDWARD VII
GOES HOMECheer By People on Leaving Paris.

ESCORTED BY M. LOUBET

Latter Wore Decoration Conferred by British Sovereign--Honors at Cherbourg.

Paris, May 5.—King Edward left the Invalides railroad station on his way to Cherbourg amid the booming of 100 cannons and the acclamations of an enormous crowd of people. The ceremonies at his majesty's departure were on the same elaborate and spectacular scale as on his arrival here. President Loubet, in a state coach, called at the British embassy and drove with the king through the avenues, on both sides of which troops and large crowds were massed.

His majesty wore the uniform of a British admiral. In a carriage following that of the king and the president were Premier Combes and Foreign Minister Delcasse, the latter wearing for the first time the grand cross of the Victorian order, bestowed upon him by King Edward.

There was a continuous roar of "Vive le Roi" along the route, through the Avenue de Marigny, over the Pont Alexandre, to the Esplanade des Invalides. The station was sumptuously decorated with crimson and gold hangings and the British and French colors. The band of the Republican Guard, stationed on the platform, played "God Save the King" at the moment of his majesty's departure. The final adieus were extremely cordial, the king and President Loubet holding a long and intimate farewell conversation. Then the king saluted the officers, bowed and smiled to the cheering crowd, entered the train and departed for Cherbourg, where a French squadron was waiting to render him farewell honors.

KAISER REVIEWS TROOPS.

A Brilliant Spectacle on Field at Centocelle.

Rome, May 5.—Owing to the recent heavy rains the military review in Emperor William's honor did not occur on the regular parade ground, but took place at Centocelle, on a large plain five miles from this city, a picturesque spot stretching to the Campagna Romana and near the ruined aqueducts. The troops numbered about 25,000 men. Emperor William recalled the fact that on the same field he had reviewed 50,000 men with the late King Humbert.

Notwithstanding the distance of Centocelle from Rome it was estimated that 100,000 persons gathered to witness the magnificent spectacle. The two sovereigns, the two German princes, Crown Prince Frederick William and Prince Eitel, and four Italian princes and their suits and 300 officers in brilliant uniforms, their accoutrements sparkling in the sun, formed a picture brilliant in the extreme. Queen Helena witnessed the review from a state carriage. Her majesty and the other members of the royal and imperial parties were heartily cheered. The emperor showed great interest in the famous Bersaglieri regiments.

The emperor and his sons lunched at the German embassy accredited to the Quirinal immediately following the review. The Palazzo Caffarelli, as the German embassy is known, was bright with flowers. No ladies were present at the lunch, owing to the absence of the German empress and to the fact that the ambassador of Germany, Count von Monts von Masin, is not married.

St. Paul, Minn., May 5.—A special to the Despatch from Frank, N. W. MRS. PRUNIER
IS DIVORCEDEnding of a Famous Case in Burlington.

CONTEST OVER $1,500,000

Suit for Alienation, Prosecution for Kidnapping and Police Search for Would Be Poisoners.

Burlington, May 5.—A divorce was granted Mrs. Melvina Prunier yesterday morning in county court, thus ending a case that has had many sensational and dramatic features. The bill was granted on the confession made by Frederick Prunier at a previous trial, for another cause, when he admitted that he had cohabited with Mrs. Lillian Ash or Campbell, who was named as co-respondent. Other testimony was also introduced to show that Prunier had lived with Mrs. Ash.

The case is a sequel to five years of litigation, which included a contest for a $1,500,000 estate, a verdict of $15,000 for alienation of affections, prosecution of Mr. Prunier for kidnapping his own son and a police search for would be poisoners.

Prunier was a Green Mountain boy, who studied medicine until his hearing failed and he had to accept employment as a nurse. By the accident of circumstances he was engaged to nurse W. C. Campbell, the wealthy wall paper manufacturer. Mrs. Lillian Ash had already installed herself as Campbell's housekeeper and protector. When Campbell died he left her his estate of $1,500,000, saving a legacy of $75,000 to his daughter, Mrs. Estelle S. Saloman. The contest which followed terminated in a compromise.

Mrs. Ash, or Campbell, for she claimed to have been married to the wall paper millionaire, engaged Prunier, the nurse, as her private secretary. Some of the testimony in the will contest prompted Mrs. Prunier, who had remained in Burlington while her husband was nursing away from home, to sue Mrs. Ash for $75,000 for alienating Prunier's affections.

She got a $15,000 verdict. Then followed an attempt to kidnap her infant son. Prunier was arrested on the strength of his step-mother-in-law's confession that the two had conspired to kidnap the boy. Mrs. Ash-Campbell wrote Prunier endearing letters while he was in jail. Shortly after Mrs. Prunier was barely saved from death by poison, and evidence of a plot involving many conspirators was discovered.

Prunier has remained in Mrs. Ash-Campbell's service as private secretary and manager of her extensive business interests. His family has lived in straightened circumstances in Burlington until the $15,000 verdict was received.

A GRAND SURPRISE.

St. Monica's Altar Boys Gathered at D.
M. Miles' Last Evening.

The members of the St. Monica's Altar Boys club gathered last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Miles to hold a special meeting. When all were seated they were reminded to their great surprise and especially to the greater amazement of Master Howard, their treasurer, that they were there to help him celebrate his twelfth birthday.

At once he received the usual and warm expression of the good wishes of his motherless little friends. The evening was then passed in music, songs and various kinds of games such as pool, etc. John Devers was awarded a story book for placing the darkey's tail nearest to where nature destined it, while Francis O'Grady won the booby prize, a box of peanuts, for bringing it out either for a bath or a drink. Ice cream and cake were served during the fun, and at a late hour the party broke up, every one wishing that Howard had more than one birthday.

As a souvenir of the happy occasion he was presented with a fountain pen, also a gift from "Muggins" and a rattle box to help pass away his darker hours.

MORE QUESTIONS.

Overseer of Poor Thru on Again Interrogated.

To Editor, Times.—In regard to the communication in last evening's paper from the overseer of the poor, I was asking about the present facts and not about the past. I want to ask the overseer if he didn't go to the woman and tell her that he wouldn't give her anything unless she would go to the poor farm, and if she did not tell him she was willing to work for her own rent, and didn't he swear at the woman twice, before witnesses? And about the children's sicknesses he can take them to any doctor and see if they need any physicians services. The children do not need his help to give them a bath every day. The people under him know how they have been used.

My husband has been paying taxes for many years and if he didn't he would be arrested for it, wouldn't he? A woman who is interested in the case.
